

Terms and conditions of use for the website

The content of this website has been created with care. However, no liability can be accepted for the accuracy, validity, completeness or availability of the information provided on this website. The website contains links to external, third-party websites. The operators of these third-party websites are solely responsible for the contents of these.

The contents of this website are protected by copyright. The use of all contents of this website is permitted exclusively for private, non-commercial purposes. Any other use requires our written consent. The contents must not be altered and they must not be used on other websites without our written consent.